BY A DECISIVE VOTE

The Senate Declares for a Monetary Conference.

SEVERAL NOTABLE SPEECHES

Powers of Vermont and Barrett of Massachusetts Exchange Broadsides in the House.

WASHINGTON, January 29.—By the decisive vote of 40 to 4 the senate today passed the bill for the appointment of commissioners to an international monetary conference. The closing of the debate brought out several notable speeches, including those of Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts, Mr. Vilas, Mr. Jones of Arkansas, Mr. Gorman, Mr. Allison and Mr. Carter of Montana. It disclosed that little opposition existed against the bill, the only division being as to the expediency of seeking bimetallism through international agreement.

The credentials of W. E. Mason as senator from Illinois for the term beginning March 4th next, were received by the senate today.

A motion by Mr. Hale, Republican of Maine, that when the senate adjourned today it be until Monday, created some opposition and a rollcall was demanded, on which the motion prevailed, 40 to 12.

The senate bill was passed pensioning Martha Frank of Georgia at $80 per month, on the statement by Mr. Gallinger that the beneficiary is over 102 years of age. She is the widow of a soldier serving in the Indian war of 1818.

Mr. Bacon, Democrat of Georgia, presented the following resolution.

Resolved, That the United States deprecates war and desires peace and friendship with all the world, and that this desire is not restricted to any one nation, but extends to their relations with all the nations of the earth, whether the same be great or small, strong or weak.

Resolved, That to the end that the relations of peace and amity now happily existing between them and all nations may be perpetually preserved and that wars may be perpetually discouraged, and as far as practicable made impossible, the United States favors the principle and practice of international arbitration for the settlement of all questions of differences between them and any other nation which they may fail to adjust by treaty or diplomatic negotiation.

Resolved, That the United States does hereby avow it as their future policy and intention whenever there shall arise any question in difference between them and any other nation which they may fail to adjust by treaty or diplomatic negotiations, that they shall and will, so far as they can consistently with the national honor and established national policies, agree with such other nations to submit such question in difference to the arbitrament and final decision of an international court of arbitration. Such court shall in the future, as in the past, be constituted by agreement between parties consenting thereto with special reference and adaptation to the particular question in difference and to the conditions then existing.

Resolved, That the United States hereby invites all civilized nations to make corresponding and reciprocal declarations to the end that war between nations may cease and that a universal reign of peace may be inaugurated and perpetually maintained.

Mr. Bacon spoke briefly on the resolution, saying that a declaration by congress, which is the war making power, would exert far greater influence toward peace and against war than any treaty. He expressed the hope that a favorable report would be speedily made by the committee on foreign relations and that congress would make the declarations stated in the resolutions.

The resolutions were referred to the committee on foreign relations.

The debate on the bill for an international monetary conference was then resumed and Mr. Vilas of Wisconsin spoke against it. He characterized the bill as vicious and misleading. It was wholly illusory, perhaps deceitful in the promises it held out, and was a fundamental acknowledgment of the theory of the Bryan campaign. Mr. Vilas referred sarcastically to those "pretty plays" of international conferences. Three of them had proven failures and the American people were tired of "international farces."

"Of course, if the United States shall continue to be inspired by that sort of statesmanship," continued Mr. Vilas, "which will try to keep an intelligent people from bothering politicians in their pursuit of peace by putting them off with the expectation of splendid results to come in the sweet by and bye from a millenial concord of nations in financial affairs, why just so long polite, courteous and sympathizing politicians in the countries of Europe will gravely consent to light a council fire and have a 'big talk' with the United States. It is for nations as for Indians, a rule of politeness.

"The conference would doubtless bring together many bright financiers who would listen and blink like owls, and after receptions and social festivities, the conference would close without action.

"The people of the United States have the right to expect such legislation as shall give them a sound currency under the instructions of the last election," continued Mr. Vilas. "If that supreme object shall be traded off for the gain of invured classes, or sacrificed to cowardice, woe to them who shall be guilty of it."

Mr. Stewart congratulated Mr. Vilas, saying he too had long seen the futility of international conferences.

Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota said he would merely record his protest against the bill. He believed the United States should act alone and that we should no longer supplicate at the feet of European nations. If the United States alone cannot establish its own ratio of 16 to 1, then it should do something which it can execute alone.

No senator present believed that an international ratio between 15 to 1 and 16 to 1 would result from this conference. Great Britain would not yield her standard. For that reason, he declared, he could see nothing in this bill except a purpose of the Republicans to satisfy those who were favorable to the free coinage of silver.

Mr. Allen of Nebraska, while ridiculing the bill and declaring that the conference was doomed to be a contemptible farce, said he would not seek to defeat it. He referred to Mr. Wolcott's trip to Europe and his failure thus far to get any one to confer with him.

Mr. Carter of Montana spoke of the recent political contest in which Mr. McKinley represented the idea of an international conference, while Mr. Bryan denounced the plan. Mr. McKinley was elected, and now this measure was presented, a step in the execution of the conference plan. The bill was carefully designed to secure the largest possible results, and Mr. Carter appealed to Mr. Cannon not to embarrass this well-considered bill by urging his amendment. If the coming administration failed to secure satisfactory results from the conference then it would be demonstrated that such a conference was futile. But in making the effort the administration should be left free to direct its own course.

Mr. Cannon stated that he and Mr. Carter had stood together up to the time of the St. Louis convention. They had entertained the same views as to the monetary conferences. If it were not for the tragic element entering into this financial subject, the shifting phases of it would become grotesque. He declined to withdraw his amendment, and said he would ask a vote on it, although if defeated he would vote for the original bill.

The Nicaragua canal bill was then taken up and Mr. Morgan asked that the vote be taken at 5 p.m. on Tuesday next, to which Mr. Turpie objected.

Mr. Morgan then advised senators that he would call up the canal bill on Monday.

The debate on the monetary conference was then resumed. In the course of the debate Mr. Jones of Arkansas made a statement of his attitude, which, in view of his position as chairman of the Democratic national committee, attracted some attention. He said he believed in allowing the friends of the bill to shape it in their own way, but believed it would fail. And yet there were many earnest friends of silver who believed it would succeed. The last election had shown that the sentiment was almost universal for bimetallism, the only division being as to the method of bringing it about. If it came through international agreement he would accept it, but would oppose any amendment not approved by Republican senators, as he desired to make them fully responsible for this movement.

Mr. Hoar gave the results of his observations in Europe last summer, showing the tendency towards bimetallism. He had talked with M. Bourgeau, author of the bimetallic resolution in the French assembly, which secured the written indorsement of 357 out of 400 members. M. Meline, the French premier, had declared that when other nations wanted bimetallism France would not be long behind. In London he had an agreeable talk with Mr. Balfour, whose championship of bimetallism had been maintained against the views of Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Vernon Harcourt.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, January 29.—The house today witnessed another exciting and somewhat sensational episode. At the end of an acrimonious debate on the conference report on the bill to confer the rights and franchises of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad on the purchasers under the mortgage foreclosure, Mr. Powers of Vermont and Mr. Barrett of Massachusetts exchanged broadsides. Mr. Powers defended the conference report against the assaults of a half score of members, led by Mr. Barrett. The latter was very severe in his criticisms, charging that a stock jobbing operation was behind the measure. This drew from Mr. Powers a reply in which he charged that Boston was the home of railroad wreckers, and with keen satire ridiculed the Massachusetts member and continued that perhaps he "was interested" in his opposition.

Mr. Barrett, in responding, not only denied absolutely any interest in the bill, but scored Mr. Powers, who, he said, was on the supreme bench of Vermont, when the Central railroad of that state was "wrecked under its decree." He was not called to order, but Mr. Grout of Vermont twice protested against the attack on the judiciary of his state. The report was rejected by an overwhelming majority—71 to 143—and the conferees were instructed to insist on the house amendments.

Just before adjournment, Mr. Hardy of Indiana, who was refused unanimous consent to continue a political speech he was making, declared he would retaliate by objecting to every request for unanimous consent for the remainder of the session.

The remainder of the day was spent in the discussion of the agricultural bill. At 5 o'clock the house took a recess until 8 o'clock.

At the night session nineteen pension bills were considered in committee of the whole.

THE PEOPLE WANTED IT

NEVADA'S GOVERNOR SIGNS THE PRIZE FIGHT BILL.

Carson City and Reno Both Bidding For the Corbett-Fitzsimmons Contest.

CARSON, January 29.—Assembly bill No. 8, intended to permit Corbett and Fitzsimmons to fight in this state, is now a law, the Governor having signed it. When asked if he ever had any thought of vetoing it, he replied: "I waited to see what the majority of the people want, intending to be entirely guided by their wishes. This policy I have pursued to the end and because the people were in favor of the bill I signed it. Of the merits in the argument made against the glove contest bill, I have nothing to say. A majority of our citizens seemed to wish it and I have signed it. That is all there is to it."

Mr. Wheelock is in San Francisco now, but before his departure he refused to say anything concerning the location of the fight if it came to this state at all. That it will come to Nevada seems almost a sure thing, but Carson and Reno both claim to be the favored spots in which it will actually occur.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 29.—Now that Governor Sadler of Nevada has signed the prize fight bill, it is accepted as a settled fact here that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will be held either in Reno or Carson. Both places are bidding for it, but until Dan Stuart gives the word no one will know which of the towns is to be selected. Reno is on the main line of the Central Pacific and is easier of access than Carson, which is a few miles distant on a branch road.

One Fly in the Pudding.

From the San Francisco Post.

"The Post is opposed to prize fighting, but if the brutal sport is to be tolerated, we know of no better place adapted to it than Nevada. The air of the mountains is bracing, the location is far from the madding crowd, there is no chance for the contagion of immorality to spread, the distance is too great for the reformers to get there to see the sport, and, all in all, Nevada is an ideal place for a fight. Were it not that Mr. Huntington's mortgaged railroad is the only means of transportation we might indorse the bill ourselves.

Constable Irvine was in from Sanger yesterday.

A FRUITLESS HOLDUP

Train Robbers Secure But Little Booty.

THE EXPRESS CAR BLOWN UP

Highwaymen Stop the Oregon Express Near Roseburg — The Messenger's Experience.

PORTLAND, Or., January 29.—The Southern Pacific express train, which left San Francisco Wednesday night, was held up and robbed by masked robbers shortly before midnight last night, two miles south of Roseburg. The car containing Wells, Fargo & Company's express and the baggage of all the passengers was set on fire by the highwaymen and the car, together with its contents, was entirely destroyed. The Wells-Fargo car carried three safes, two of which the robbers succeeded in opening. They only contained about $20, and this is believed to be the extent of the booty which was secured by the highwaymen. The through safe, containing all the valuables, could not be opened, and after the fire had burned out it was placed in another car and taken through.

Just as the train pulled out of Myrtle Creek a man was seen to jump on the front end of the mail car, which followed the tender. When the train reached the place agreed upon by the robbers for the holdup, Engineer Morris saw the signal and immediately brought his train to a standstill.

The man on the mail car then climbed over the tender, and with a drawn revolver ordered the engineer to hold up his hands. Fireman Hendricks at once jumped from the train and started for Roseburg to give information of the robbery. The robbers, who were stationed at the point agreed upon, immediately uncoupled the baggage, express and mail cars, and the two robbers on the engine opened the throttle and took the three cars about 300 yards ahead.

Conductor Veach and Brakeman Lohe shouted to the engineer, inquiring the trouble. Their answer was a fusillade of shots, and the command to get back to the train. Neither seeming to obey quickly enough, another volley was fired at them from the engine. Two of the robbers then went to the express car and exploded a charge of giant powder, and then ordered Messenger Butler to open the door. He replied with a shot, which was returned by the robbers. Three other men stood guard and kept the trainmen and passengers from coming up.

Receiving no reply to their second command for Messenger Butler to come out—he having slipped through the opposite door—another charge of dynamite was placed under the car and fired. The effect was ruinous. Doors were blown apart and the heavy floor timbers of the car shivered into splinters.

The car was at once entered and the two small safes of the express company attacked with giant powder. Both of these were blown open. The last charge sent the burning coals from the stove flying in every direction. These, alighting among the paper-wrapped packages, at once set the interior of the car in a blaze.

After the express car had been set on fire, they turned their attention to the mail car. After exploding a charge of giant powder, they ordered Postal Clerk Chas. Piper to open the door. At the second command he obeyed and one man entered, revolver in hand. After rummaging about for five minutes and breaking open a number of packages he left without taking anything. By this time the fire from the express car was communicated to the rear end of the mail car.

Owing to the presence of mind of Postal Clerk Piper, he saved the entire mail from destruction. He secured a bucket and together with the engineer, carried the water from a small pond near by and succeeded in keeping the fire away from the mail and only slight damage resulted from water.

Express Messenger Butler made the following report to Eugene Selby, local manager of Wells, Fargo & Company:

"When the train stopped, I put out the lamps, took a shotgun, opened a door and shot at a man I took for a robber, and he shot at me. When I saw the flash I snapped my gun at him again, but it missed fire. One charge of giant powder had been exploded under the forward end of the car before I shot. The discharge of the giant powder being accompanied by the command to 'come out or be killed.' Knowing that he had giant powder and my gun failing to work, I got out on the opposite side of the car, just as he threw the giant powder in. I slipped out apparently unobserved before the fuse had time to burn to the fulminating cap, and entered the coach. The explosion of the cartridge of dynamite occurred just as I reached the cab.

"The express and mail cars were then detached and run ahead about a quarter of a mile. Five charges of giant powder were used on the safes. The car took fire and was burned completely with its contents.

"After the robbers left I stayed with the safes till daylight. Train 15 left about 5 50 a.m., leaving me to watch the safes, there being no place to move them to.

"At daylight we took the safes on a push car to Roseburg in time to catch No. 16, which leaves at 8 a.m. The safes are badly damaged by powder and fire but the steel box is not opened. The through safe was overlooked but was red when taken from the fire. The local safe was blown to pieces but there was little of value in it.

"A rancher came to the train and said that five men passed his house from the scene of the robbery, carrying two lanterns, shortly after the shooting ceased."

Superintendent Field of the Southern Pacific, who happened to be in Roseburg, took a special engine about 1.30 a. m. and hurried to the scene. After a few hours work the track was cleared and the train taken to Roseburg. It is believed that there were five men in the gang, but two did all the work.

None of the passengers were molested. While Engineer Morris was looking out of the cab a bullet grazed his cheek, but did no serious damage. Several commercial travelers are known to have lost valuable samples by the burning of the baggage car. A reward has been offered for the apprehension of the robbers.

Conduct Marked by Principle.

From the Stockton Mail.

The FRESNO REPUBLICAN has rounded out the thirtieth year of its publication. It encountered some mighty obstacles and trials in some of its earlier years, but these it has fully overcome, and is now on the high road to fortune. The conduct of the REPUBLICAN has always been marked by principle, and while this was at times a handicap it has resulted in giving it a following and an influence excelled by few papers in the state. May it live long and prosper.

THE WAR PORTFOLIO.

General Alger of Michigan Has Accepted It.

CANTON, O., January 29.—General Russell A. Alger of Michigan arrived from Cleveland this afternoon and drove directly to the McKinley residence.

"I have been tendered and have accepted the war portfolio," said General Alger to the Associated Press reporter at the McKinley house this afternoon.

High School Lecture.

Dr. C. J. Miner delivered an interesting and instructive lecture to the physiology classes of the high school yesterday morning on "The Anatomy and Physiology of the Eye." The lecture was illustrated by models and diagrams and treated the subject with considerably more thoroughness than the ordinary text books. It is proposed to have a number of other lectures delivered by competent persons on subjects connected with the school work.

ASSEMBLYMEN TESTIFY

AS TO THEIR RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE LONG PAYROLL.

Many Members Credited With Requesting Appointments Deny the Same.

SACRAMENTO, January 29.—At the investigation into the organization by the committee of seven this afternoon, Minute Clerk Wickham testified that he had never seen the list of names added to Duckworth's appointments.

W. R. Gay said that he did not request the appointment of Clerk Alberti or any one else.

F. M. Leavitt said that he requested the appointment of Frank Barnett, who had helped Duckworth on Sunday, and that of J. M. Oliver, at the request of H. E. Wright.

Strain said that he had requested the appointment of Robert Nixon, but not on the temporary roll.

Breiling, chairman of the mileage committee, stated that there was a misunderstanding about the appointment of Williams. The mileage committee did not recommend it. The name of Williams was substituted for that of Campbell by the committee, on the claim of Williams that Campbell's name had been erroneously put in the list. W. M. Lamphere vouched for Williams.

Mileage was allowed Hocking on the recommendation of Sergeant-at-arms Parkinson, who said that Hocking was a poor man and had come to Sacramento under the misapprehension that he was required to do so by the law, he having served two years ago.

Breiling could not remember who recommended mileage for Andy Branch, Robert Nixon Jr. and F. H. Lombard. Belshaw had moved to strike out the mileage but the house voted the motion down.

Power of San Francisco acknowledged one appointment. He was charged with two. Lucy of San Francisco was charged with three. He did not know any of them and did not ask for any appointments.

Harris, who is charged with three, admitted one. Did not know the others. Gately did not request the appointment of any one. He said that if he had known that he had the power to recommend anybody he would have sent to San Francisco for some Democrat.

J. Hocking, who was a temporary employe and who received $114 mileage, admitted having received $60 from the sheriff of San Bernardino county to cover expenses of his trip in taking a prisoner to San Quentin with him.

Given, state janitor, testified that he had identified T. W. Measure as the man who had served as electrician two years ago, and on the strength of this identification Duckworth appointed Measure and the latter received seven days' pay as temporary electrician.

Adjournment was taken to Monday afternoon.

Judge J. D. Galloway, who is holding a clerkship in the state senate, arrived home yesterday on a brief visit. He will return on Monday.

FEW SENATORS ON DUTY

Some Difficulty in Establishing a Quorum.

THIRD READING FILE PASSED

A Number of Bills and Resolutions Introduced in Each Branch of the Legislature.

SACRAMENTO, January 29.—There was not a quorum present when Lieutenant Governor Jeter rapped for order in the senate this morning, and a call of the house was ordered. Senator Langford and Senator Henderson were captured in the corridors. As soon as a quorum had been established the senators made their escape to committee rooms, and so few were present that the third reading file was passed.

Senator Smith introduced a similar resolution to that of Burnham in the assembly relating to a county expert, which was made a special order for next Tuesday.

Bills were introduced as follows:

Providing for the survey and construction of a wagon road from Tallac to McKinney's, along the shore of Lake Tahoe; providing for the appointment of a state food commissioner; prohibiting the exercise by any person, other than a duly licensed physician or surgeon, of mesmeric or hypnotic influence upon any person; prohibiting the employment of convicts confined in the state prisons of the state in the manufacture of textile fabrics other than jute grain bags; amending sections 350, 351 and 354 of the penal code, relating to punishment for counterfeit trade marks.

The senate adjourned until 12.30 Monday.

ASSEMBLY.

SACRAMENTO, January 29.—Mr. Dryden opened the proceedings in the assembly this morning with a vigorous argument in favor of his Cuban resolution which he desired sent to congress. He said that he hoped that such a weak report as had been returned by the majority would not be forwarded. The majority resolution was passed by a majority vote.

Clark's bill making it unlawful to build railroads along county roads was amended so as to permit railroads so to do provided they build a wagon road alongside the railroad.

F. M. Leavitt of Alameda arose and wanted to know what had become of the resolution asking for an investigation of the state printing office. He said that he had been informed that Chairman Mellek of the committee to which it had been referred was conducting a secret espionage and that no open sessions were being held. Hill of the committee declared that a fair and impartial investigation was being made.

Dennery asked that the resolution be referred back, and Leavitt added that he wanted an impartial committee on the matter. The resolution was ordered reported back on Monday.

The following bills were introduced:

By Seward—Compelling every person, partnership or corporation doing business in the state to set apart a day in each week, or each month, as payday, and compelling them on that day to pay to its employes all the wages then due.

By Dibble—Providing for the acceptance by the state from the Veterans' Home association of its property in Napa county, the same to be used as a state home for United States soldiers, sailors and marines.

By Cross—Providing that bank commissioners may compel the officers of a bank to show cause why they, the bank commissioners, should not take charge of the institution.

By Elliott—Adding a new section to the code of civil procedure, whereby the public administrator is made guardian of the person and estate of all minors and insane persons where no fit person is entitled to letters of guardianship, or where no guardian has been appointed by will or deed.

Burnham introduced a resolution to the effect that the committee intrusted with the county government bill report in favor of creating a county expert. The resolution was made a special order for Monday morning.

In the afternoon all bills reported back from committees were read for the first time and placed on the second reading file. Adjourned.

Kicked to Death.

Harry Wilson, proprietor of the White Fawn saloon, received a telegram from Byron Springs yesterday announcing the death of his brother, Charles Wilson, from the kick of a horse. The deceased was engaged in farming near the springs, and was only 33 years old. A widow and two children survive him. Mr. Wilson left this morning for Byron Springs to attend his brother's funeral and to render what assistance he can to the bereaved family.

GROSVENOR AND ALTGELD.

When Congressman Grosvenor, in the house of representatives, day before yesterday, scored ex-Governor Altgeld of Illinois he applied the oral lash to as remarkable a demagogue as this country has produced in recent years. There are others of the Altgeld kind, but he is far and away in the van of the variety. He has charged that various states were stolen for McKinley in the election of last fall, basing his charge particularly upon the increase of Republican votes in Ohio. Of course Grosvenor well knew the situation in that state, and he put the quietus on a charge which has gone its way from Democratic paper to Democratic paper, by showing that the increase of Democratic votes was even greater than the Republican increase. At the same time he lashed Altgeld unmercifully.

He did a good thing. We have had somewhat too many Altgelds in office in these latter years. They appear to be a symptom of the social unrest through which we are passing. Colorado elected a Waite to the governorship, and straightway he distinguished himself by talk of gore, bloody bridles and such other rantings as a Waite alone could mouth. Kansas created a Governor Lewellyn, and he distinguished himself as only a voluble nothingness could. Men of the kind, too, occasionally found their way into congress.

But it remained for Illinois to put the cap sheaf on this sort of demagogic structure by electing Altgeld to the gubernatorial position. Altgeld belongs, and he does not belong, to the class of the others who have been mentioned. He belongs to it by right of his demagogy and his constant readiness to breathe verbal brimstone from his nostrils; he does not belong to it by right of his brains. Mentally Waite and Lewellyn are little men; mentally Altgeld is comparatively great. They are one in their capacity to damn all things and conditions that exist; they are distinct in that the Illinois governor has the capacity to do as well as to damn. The latter can do much evil; the others can only utter it.

The most notorious act of Altgeld's administration was his pardon of the Chicago anarchists. Those people notoriously belonged to the bloody brotherhood; they preached the destruction of government, and they incited to riot and murder. After the bloody Haymarket scenes they were tried, convicted and imprisoned. Their pardon was due solely to the Governor's sympathy with their kind. The shamefulness of the act was comparable only with the shamelessness of its doer.

Altgeld was a leading spirit in the Democratic national convention of last year. He it was, as much as any one man, who breathed into that convention a spirit that could not be tolerated by a majority of the American people. Notwithstanding that all possible combinations were made, that spirit led to the defeat of the party; and when the inevitable defeat had come, then Altgeld was in the forefront of those who prated of rascality and thievery. He is a dangerous man because to his sympathy with anarchy is added more than ordinary ability and political adroitness.

J. M. Hunter of Bakersfield, in discussing the necessity of the Valley railroad to the people of the San Joaquin, recently cited an instance, as follows:

"I handle a large amount of wire fencing manufactured in Adrian, Mich. A carload from Adrian to Mojave, a distance of about 2100 miles, cost me over the Santa Fe system $225. From Mojave to Bakersfield, a distance of sixty-seven miles, the Southern Pacific gets in on it for $225 more. That's the way the 'short haul' proposition strikes us."

And that is the way the short haul proposition has struck the people of the entire valley in the past. There is not a community from Modesto to Tehachapi to which such instances are not an old and painful story. One public enterprise has been needed above and beyond all others here, and that enterprise was the competing road which has come or is coming.

There is no reasonable ground for the protest raised against the state rock crushing plant at Folsom. The inmates of the state's prisons must be employed in some way, and there is probably no work that they can do that will interfere less with free labor. It is also hoped that the rock crushing by the state on an extensive scale will promote permanent road building, thus increasing rather than diminishing the opportunity of free labor for employment. Political demagogues are evidently responsible for the opposition which is being raised.

Maj. McKinley is a man who has passed life's meridian, but we doubt if he ever realized what a neighborly lot of people his fellow citizens are until he began the work of constructing a cabinet. Enough assistance has been volunteered to build a hundred cabinets, and at times people have been tumbling over each other in their anxiety to get a hold of some of the heavy timber. The President-elect will evidently never forget the disinterested counsel and aid which have been so freely proffered him during the past few months.

Ex-Senator Goucher, late of the Watchman, is now doing the heavy editorial work on the Expositor. Mr. Goucher is a forcible writer, and is given the credit for having ably edited a letter from Supervisor Letcher which appeared in the Watchman a few months ago and attracted widespread attention. The sentiments therein expressed were, as a matter of course, the venerable Supervisor's, but the picturesque language is attributed to the gifted pen of the Senator.

Lyman J. Gage, who will succeed John G. Carlisle as Secretary of the Treasury, got his start in life "hustling" lumber in a Chicago yard. He has been "hustling" ever since, and is now one of the most successful bankers and financiers in the West. There is no doubt about Mr. Gage being a capable financier; whether he will be as successful in promoting the welfare of the country as he has in promoting his own interests remains to be seen.

The evening paper intimates that it is going to stick to its absurd statement in regard to the Fresno House being "stuffed" with thirty or forty voters for the November election. Very likely it will do so; it generally does. It does so on the principle, apparently, that any sort of old thing in the way of a campaign story is as good as the truth if you stick to it long enough.

Lawyer Grady will plead self defense in justification for the car chewing act. Grady must have had a narrow escape—just by the skin of his teeth—and will probably have another one when his case gets into court. W. W. Foote will tell the jury how that Grady would have been the deadest kind of a corpse if he had not used his trusty teeth to defend himself.

The faking newspapers of the metropolis have finally decided to postpone their local Chinese war until after the heathen have concluded their New Year's celebration. Very well; the hatchets can be ground to a razor edge while the punk burns and the pork roasts. The war reporters will also have time to think up some new lies.

An authority on life insurance says that cycling endangers life more than traveling by rail or ship. The party who made the statement has evidently taken his first ride on a bicycle, and has not yet recovered.

RANDOM REMARKS.

The bill to permit prize fighting in Nevada has passed the assembly and senate of that state and at this writing awaits the Governor's signature. Nevada bids fair to attain distinction of a kind if she keeps right on.

The Simpson (Methodist) tabernacle in Los Angeles, which cost $90,000 and is a magnificent temple, is encumbered by a mortgage of $26,000 which must be met. "The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head."

WORDS THAT COUNT FOR NIL.

"Resolved, by the Assembly and senate of the State of California, That while we extend our warmest sympathy to the Cubans in their heroic struggle for independence, we deem it inopportune at this time to offer advice to the federal government as to its treatment of a grave international question, but have full confidence that the national administration will deal with it in a manner which will not only secure the desired end, but reflect honor and credit on the United States."—As adopted by the assembly, and, at this writing, possibly to be reconsidered.

Then why chip in? If you have naught to say,
In common reason's name don't say it, pray.
Why shoot a gun which lacks its leaden fill?
And why declare your utmost thought is nil?
And, as you lack conclusions, by your grace
Leave it to us to guess that that's the case.
A string on "warmest sympathy" is queer:
It needs few words to make its purport clear.

Faith! I believe, upon my sacred word,
That Cuba might another note have heard.
The sympathy which standeth not afraid,
The sympathy which giveth loving aid,
She might have had from those whose father's died
When Freedom's hand a tyrant's might defied.
But, lacking that, for God's sake let's be still,
And not resolve in words that count for nil.

IT SEEMS TO ME.

As you say, Horatio, women are very rarely heard to swear, but if one could hear the gentle creatures think sometimes!

A garment of creed may be well enough, but he who would reach heaven in it may be wise to see that it is not cut on a bias.

A certain community sent a man to the legislature, and yet had considerable wisdom left at home. Now was not that a curious and fortunate community?

Perhaps your child is not very pretty, but that does not prove much. The homeliest hen I have lays the biggest eggs.

Some parrots talk a great deal, but intelligent people do not go to them for information.

When Willie Browne was thirteen years old people said that he was a genius. Now that he is thirty years old he is living with his pa.

A certain man robbed the people of several million dollars. Then he came to the people whom he had robbed, and they said, "This is the great Mr. So-and-so," and tendered him a banquet. Yet some people say that forgiveness is a difficult virtue for men to practice.

A vain man should be condemned by everybody, but much charity should be felt for the unfortunate possessor of a quick temper. I have one myself.

It takes facts to put a finishing touch on a theory. One wrote a brilliant editorial and proved conclusively that there is work enough for everybody. The man in the next block starved to death that day because he could find nothing to do.

Intellect without heart is a failure. An iceberg is beautiful, but it would make a mighty chilly place to reside.

What's in a name, do you ask? Venture to ask a bloomer girl how she likes her pants, and you will ascertain.

Once in a while God makes a man who can think, and then something happens.

There is sympathy and sympathy. Boggs refused to give a hungry man work, and then he sat down and shed tears over the woes of "Maid Ethel, the Heiress of Shufli Castle."

Noggs meant to donate $100 to the Society for the Reformation of the Heathen in Foreign Lands, but a footpad held him up and took the money away from him. What of it? Nothing.

The other day I wrote a suggestion that Congressman Turpie might be turned out to browse because he opposed the Nicaragua canal bill. It was neither a very wise nor a very witty thing to say, and the Tulare Citizen "calls me down" on it in language from which I quote:

"There are two conditions which must prevail before the government should expend one dollar on the construction of the Nicaragua canal. First, it should be established beyond a doubt that the scheme is practical and could be accomplished by the expenditure of a certain sum; secondly, there should be no company or other parties interested in the canal, other than the government which is expected to foot all the bills, and should control the enterprise and reap all the profits."

All of which is so evidently true that it does not seem to leave much room for controversy. The United States, and particularly the Pacific coast, needs the inter-oceanic canal, and it needs it badly. But there is such a thing as paying too much even for the whistle that is needed in the family. That the feasibility of the canal should be demonstrated before the work of construction is begun is so plain a business proposition that nobody can doubt it. It should be remembered, however, that engineers in number have reported that the plan is practical, and, while their reports may be one-sided and unfair, they at any rate justify the outlay of enough money to decide the question. But the second point made by the Citizen is still more to the heart of the question. That paper is right; that for which the government pays, it should own. Why should it construct a great canal and give the proceeds to a few men? Have not we of the Pacific coast had experience with that sort of a business deal on the part of the government? And have we not paid right dearly for the experience? Let the government own that for which it pays; the great public enterprise should not be converted into a private snap. But we sorely need the canal on the right conditions. Is Congressman Turpie working for it on such conditions? Very well; let him come in from the pasture. But if he is not, what then? If the government pays for the canal, it should own it. The application of elementary business principles to the case should convince any man of the soundness of the proposition. But if a congressman opposes anything else is he released of his duty to make the enterprise one of by and for the people? But I do not insist on the browsing proposition, you understand.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Webster Bros' drug store, cor. K and Mariposa streets. Regular size 50c and $1.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters; 50c and $1 per bottle at Webster Bros' drug store, cor. K and Mariposa streets.

Geese in the Air

Show that B. T. Scott has been hunting, and the ripple around his stores today and yesterday proves that prices have fallen and the thrifty wives, mothers and daughters of this valley are taking advantage of an opportunity to provide such Groceries, Crockery and Agate Ware as they know they will need at the low prices Scott is selling at. Scott now comes to the front with a Prize Baking Powder, which is the grandest prize ever given away with a one-pound can of Baking Powder. Just read! Here it is: One set of handsome White China Cups and Saucers, worth 60c, and one pound can of Baking Powder, worth 50c, for only 50c for the two; or you can get one pound can of Cleveland, Folger or Schilling Powder for 40c and a five-pound can for 75c, for which you pay $1.45 at other places; 15 packages of matches for 25c; quart bottle Bluing at 15c; 15 bars Toilet Soap for 25c; 12 cans Oysters at 90c; and his shelves are loaded down with goods too numerous to quote prices. Go it, Scott; you are strictly in it. Your goose hunt was a success.

Notes.

The hunting season closes next Monday.

Fishing will soon be in, and away to the mountains for trout.

Thompson or "Up to Date" will this season carry the most complete line of Tackle ever in Fresno.

Rambler Bicycles are now the rage, as this standard is in price to suit the demands of the public—$80.

Champion Walter F. Foster of Rambler fame has sent two fine photos of himself to R. M. Thompson, the big bicycle dealer.

The most complete ladies' bicycle ever built is now on exhibition in Fresno. The wheel is so improved that it is impossible to get the skirts caught in the wheels or chain. It also has the hygienic seat and wooden handle bars with grips so nicely finished that it will not soil a white glove. The finish of the wheel in general is complete, and must be seen to be appreciated. Same is now on exhibition at Thompson's big bicycle store.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing, Michigan. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by Smith Bros., corner Hughes hotel.

Summons.

In the superior court of the county of Fresno, State of California.

The California Savings and Loan Society, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. J. P. Koch, Robert Mack, E. B. Perrin, D. J. Guggenhime, E. M. Sieljes, Frank H. Short, C. H. Williams, Sarah A. Williams, The Fresno Land Company, a corporation, John Doe and Mary Roe, defendants.

Action brought in the superior court of the county of Fresno, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the clerk of said county. J. F. Cowdery, attorney for plaintiff.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA send greeting to J. P. Koch, Robert Mack, E. B. Perrin, D. J. Guggenhime, E. M. Sieljes, Frank H. Short, C. H. Williams, Sarah A. Williams, The Fresno Land Company, a corporation, John Doe and Mary Roe, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the superior court of the county of Fresno, State of California, to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, after the service on you of this summons if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this court for foreclosure of a mortgage, described in said complaint, made, executed and delivered, by said defendants, J. P. Koch and Robert Mack, to said defendant, E. B. Perrin and one J. B. Randol, on the 9th day of December, 1890, to secure payment of a promissory note of same date described in said mortgage and complaint, made, executed and delivered by said defendants, Koch and Mack, to said defendant, Perrin and said Randol, payable four years after date, for the sum of $13,000.00 with interest at the rate of seven—7—per cent per annum, interest payable semi-annually, and if not so paid to be compounded.

That said mortgage was recorded in Recorder's office, Fresno county, in Vol. 75 of mortgages, page 393, et seq., and affects that certain real property, situated in Fresno county, State of California, described as follows, to-wit:

Lots 212, 213, 214, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 143, 144, 147, 109, 110, 148, east ½ of 108, 205, 206, 207, 208, 201, east ½ of 183, east ½ of 184, containing together about four hundred and ten—410—acres as laid down and designated on the map thereof, entitled, map of Perrin Colony No. 2, which map was filed for record in the office of the county recorder of said Fresno county, on the eight—8—day of October, 1890, and is hereby referred to for further or more description.

Plaintiff alleges that on December 27th, 1890, said Randol, assigned all of his interest in said note and mortgage to said defendant Perrin and thereupon said defendant Perrin, assigned said note and mortgage to plaintiff herein, who is still the holder and owner of said promissory note and mortgage.

That at the request of defendant E. B. Perrin, and defendants J. P. Koch and Robert Mack, plaintiff released the west half of number two hundred and thirteen, all of lots (201, 207, 208, 143, 181) two hundred and one, two hundred and seven, two hundred and eight, one hundred and forty-three, and one hundred and eighty-one, have been released from the operation of said mortgage.

Plaintiff alleges that there is now due and unpaid on said promissory note and mortgage to plaintiff, the sum of $13,000.00 with interest thereon from December 9th, 1890, at the rate of seven—7—per cent per annum, all in gold coin of the United States.

Plaintiff further alleges that the value of the property described in said mortgage is not sufficient to discharge the amounts due to the plaintiff upon said promissory note and that said property produces an income from rents which should be equitably applied in satisfaction of said debt; and that it is necessary, in order to protect the plaintiff, that a receiver of said property should be appointed in this action to collect the said rents and to apply them as this court may direct by its decree in this action.

Plaintiff prays for judgment against defendants J. P. Koch and Robert Mack, for $13,000.00 in gold coin and interest thereon at seven—7—per cent per annum from December 9th, 1890.

That a receiver be appointed by the court in this action upon the filing of the complaint, or at any time thereafter upon plaintiff's motion to take possession of said premises, and to receive the rents, issues and profits thereof, and to apply them as this court by its final decree may direct.

That the usual decree be made for the sale of said mortgaged property for gold coin of the United States by a commissioner appointed by this court, according to law and the practice of this court; that the proceeds of such sale be applied to the expense of such sale, and to the payment of the judgment in this action; that all of said defendants and all persons claiming from or under them or from or under either of them subsequent to the execution and recording of said mortgage as aforesaid, be barred and forever foreclosed of and from all right, claim or equity of redemption in said described mortgaged real property, and every part and parcel thereof.

That the plaintiff or any other party to this action may become the purchaser at said sale. That a proper and sufficient deed of conveyance of said real property when so sold be executed to the purchaser, and that said purchaser be let into the possession of such real property and for judgment against the makers of said note for any deficiency. And for such other and further relief in the premises as shall appear to be meet and agreeable to equity, as will more fully appear by reference to said complaint.

And you are hereby notified, that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in said complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior court of the county of Fresno, state of California, this 11th day of December, 1896.

SAFE BEHIND THE BARS

Officers Return With Two Footpads.

RECOGNIZED BY VICTIMS

Cleverly Captured by Officers Henry and Timmins—Formal Identification Today.

Viewing the crowd at the depot yesterday afternoon just before the 5.20 train arrived a stranger might have supposed that some distinguished individual was expected. He would have been wrong, though, for the crowd was mostly composed of persons anxious to get a glimpse of the men arrested by Officers Henry and Timmins on suspicion of being members of the gang who held up several Fresnans a week ago last Thursday night.

When the train arrived and the officers got off the cars with their prisoners the crowd closed in on them and it is not at all unlikely that the prisoners felt a little uneasy. Two or three of the men they held under the crowd and one of them cried out "They're the men!"

Up Mariposa street went the officers with their captives, the crowd following the squad until the jail was reached. The people lingered about the doorway for some time after the prisoners were put behind lock and key, but finally drifted away.

In the jail office the two men, whose names are James Wilson and Frank Hall, were registered and searched, after which they were locked up in the steel-lined cell. Instructions were given to permit no one to see the prisoners nor talk to them. None of the victims of the supposed footpads were allowed to see them last night, but they will be given an opportunity to identify them this morning.

Jake Bloomingdale was at the depot when the officers arrived last evening with Wilson and Hall to see if he could identify them as his assailants. The crowd was so large, however, that he could not get a good view of them. Tony Diaz, who was severely beaten by the thugs, was also at the depot. While he, too, was prevented from getting a good view of them he saw enough to convince him that the officers had the right men. Diaz says the little one is the leader of the gang. He harasses all the members of it before and knows the men well.

Deputy Constable Henry was questioned concerning the capture last night and told the following story:

"Deputy Sheriff Timmins and myself started out to capture those fellows immediately after hearing of the holdups. We had seen Wilson and Hall in town on the afternoon before the night of the robberies and were certain that they were concerned in them. We went out the different roads leading from Fresno, but did not strike a clew till we went north.

"On Sunday Con Angel and I took a rig and drove to Madera. We first heard of Wilson and Hall at Herndon. They had gone into town and bought some canned goods and a bottle of whisky, probably making their lunch at the riverside. There were three other men with them, but where they separated—the two going one way and the three another—I don't know yet. We drove on to Madera and made inquiries, but learned nothing important. We came back the same day and on the way overtook a man who was driving down from Stockton. He told us of having met five men, all fairly well dressed, on the road, and from his description I was certain that Wilson and Hall were among them.

"On Tuesday morning Timmins and I took the local at Stockton, making inquiries at Merced, Modesto and Lathrop, without ascertaining anything definite. We believed, however, that we were not far from our game. Arrived at Stockton, we made a search of the town without finding the fellows, so in the evening we thought we would go to the boat in case they should go to San Francisco by that route. Timmins went to the new line steamers, which leave for the city at 6 p.m., and I went to the old company's boat, which started at 5 p.m. I watched for quite a time, and just as the gang plank was about to be raised preliminary to starting, I saw two men come along and board the boat on the run. I did not get a good look at them, but was convinced they were the fellows I was after, so I boarded the boat, too, first sending word to Timmins and asking him to follow on the other boat. The gang plank had been raised, and I had to make a jump for it.

"I afterwards got a good view of the men and saw that they were the ones I wanted. I decided not to arrest them until we were near San Francisco, but kept close watch on them lest they should get off at one of the intermediate landings. I didn't sleep any that night. About three-quarters of an hour before the boat arrived at its destination I went to where the fellows were on the upper deck and put them under arrest. They made no resistance. I first arrested the tall fellow, Wilson, and searched him. He had on him a clasp knife and some papers which were of no importance. I then woke Hall, the little fellow, and put him under arrest. I also searched him and found $1.50 on him, but no weapons. Wilson had very little to say, but Hall said, 'I guess you're mistaken young feller; I never was in Fresno.'

"Shortly after the arrest the boat drew up to the wharf. Just after the tackle had been thrown to the pier with the hawser attached to it the prisoners made a run for the side of the boat, climbed the rail and tried to jump on the wharf. They missed land and fell into the water, one on each side of the tackle. Being handcuffed together each had only one hand free, and had not help been handy they would have been drowned. With the assistance of some bystanders I got them out of the water, but not without considerable trouble, and took them to jail, whence they were sent to the receiving hospital.

"Timmins, whose boat had arrived several hours late, joined me later on. We left the metropolis with our prisoners Wednesday afternoon and arrived in Stockton that night. While in San Francisco one of the detectives there thought Wilson was an ex convict, but he was not sure of it. We were in no hurry to get back, because we wanted to make inquiries into the whereabouts of the rest of the gang, and both Timmins and myself put in a good deal of work on this business. While Hall, the younger prisoner, claims not to have been in Fresno on the night of the holdup, he gave a very unsatisfactory account of himself when questioned as to his whereabouts at that time, and several times contradicted himself.

Both Officers Timmins and Henry were very reticent when asked concerning the result of their search for the remainder of the gang and it is believed that they have important information that will soon lead to the arrest of the whole outfit. Neither officer has the least doubt that Wilson and Hall were concerned in the holdups and believe both will be identified by their victims this morning. They do not think that any of the men now in jail belong to the gang.

Both Deputy Constable Henry and Deputy Sheriff Timmins deserve commendation for the perseverance and intelligence with which they conducted the chase and for putting such dangerous rascals behind the bars.

Charles Stagg, the hack driver, identified the smaller of the prisoners as the man who came to the hack-stand at the Grand Central hotel about 2 o'clock in the morning, after the holdups, and engaged in conversation with him. The fellow told Stagg that he had to go to work in the morning, and wanted to go to bed immediately. He hired the driver to carry him to his lodging house, but finally said he wanted to go to Chinatown. Stagg let him out at the corner of Hunault and Rochon's saloon.

Stagg had an idea at the time, judging from the fellow's appearance and demeanor, that he was one of the robbers.

The boldness of the thug in returning to the business portion of the city so soon after having committed the robberies is somewhat remarkable, and substantiates the belief that the two men are desperate characters.

ABOUT SMUDGING.

Pointers to Ranchers About to Burn Their Brush.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:— I see that different vineyardists and fruit growers are disposing of the brush in different ways. One ties it in bundles for fuel for his brush burning engine. Another chops it up in the field to be plowed under to rot for the benefit of the soil. Still another piles it up to rot, to be again returned to the soil. A fourth burns it in cocks on the ground. Others consume it in the iron wagon that drops the ashes as it goes.

These all claim their advantages. The ashes are an alkali—potash—that benefits the land unless it be alkali land, which it may injure if the alkali is already in excess and if the alkali be potash. The writer has an acre or two of alkali land which he values, as he hauls the earth to his higher lands and to the alluvial land as a fertilizer. Last year it doubled the wheat crop where spread a quarter of an inch deep. It must be analyzed and then published.

To return to the brush question. We may expect within ten days to see the air clouded with smoke from the burning of brush in the vineyards and orchards. It would be interesting to know how many degrees these fires will raise the temperature of the atmosphere. Statistics show that moderate smudging raises the temperature several degrees, in some chemical way combining smoke and moisture. Now, considering that our raisin and fruit crops were damaged last year by one or two nights of frost that lowered the temperature only about two degrees below the power of endurance of the vines, and knowing that cycles of excessive heat and cold often embrace a few consecutive years, would it not be wise to defer burning some of the brush until such time as its burning might prove a benefit? No one can reasonably doubt that one-fourth of the brush taken from the vineyards if burned during the few frosty nights (or early mornings, when the thermometer falls) would have saved our fruit last spring.

Now the writer proposes to place small piles of brush a few feet apart all around his vineyards and orchards, and larger piles wherever room may be found for them. These will be placed also along the irrigating ditches, where water may be obtained for smudging with wet manure placed on the burning brush. As loose vines do not burn readily a little straw and some tree brush or a sheaf of pressed and wire-bound grape brush laid under the loose vines would insure a quick and sufficient fire.

Much less heat is required to save the fruit if smoke and moisture are produced with the heat. The brush from a few rows of vines around the outside of the vineyard, carried out by the brush rake for this purpose, would be attended with no extra expense and would not be unsightly when its office was known.

We are aware that some of our vineyardists as well as the orange growers of Florida have not observed an equivalent benefit from smudging. In Florida the temperature fell from ten to fifteen degrees below any frost we have ever suffered in this valley. Their frosts are usually much heavier than ours. Under such conditions smudging must fail. Want of experience, together with our lack of proper preparation to meet the enemy, no doubt made smudging in our experience a doubtful expedient. In other sections, with experienced manipulators, the aggregate of testimony is in favor of smudging.

Hoping to elicit some thought and discussion on this important subject, the writer submits the above, presuming upon the indulgence of the REPUBLICAN, the fruit growers friend, to publish the same. I. S. EDELEMAN.

KEEP OUT THE CHINESE.

Trying to Establish Themselves on This Side.

It is reported that observing that one Chinese wash house is being tolerated on this side of the track, several Mongolians have approached persons who own houses near the laundry established on I street with the view of renting store rooms.

If speedy action is not taken in this matter by our citizens it will not be long before the Chinese take entire possession of one of Fresno's most important thoroughfares to the detriment of the surrounding property. Let the Chinese be confined to their present quarters. If allowed to entrench themselves in this part of town they will bring with them dirt, immorality and lawlessness with no advantages whatever to offset those in the least degree.

A TRIP ON SNOW SHOES

INTERESTING VISIT TO THE SIERRA MINES.

Eight Men Busy at the Providence Mine—Other Claims Being Worked.

So far this has been an exceptionally open winter and the traveler, though obliged to go on snow shoes, has them to carry on his shoulder over occasional dry ground. The snow we find to be on an average about twenty inches deep, while in places exposed to the sun the ground is bare, and little rivulets stream over the rocks and make their way to the ice-bridged streams in the canyons below. The residents are few—only men taking care of the mills, an occasional shake or post maker—and you are left in the solitude of a kingdom of forest. You are very apt to have snow for a bed unless you stumble on the camp of a sturdy miner or prospector—California's vanguards of civilization! long may they live—when you will meet with a hearty welcome to share his bacon and beans, coffee and sour bread; and as you eat and dry your feet, he takes his toll for board and lodging in advance in the shape of what outside news you carry, and begs for the scrap of newspaper you have your lunch done up in. This is all your host will accept, unless it is a sip of spirits frumenti, which he will measure without the aid of a graduated vial.

We found Gus Unger at the old Funk place, and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cressman at the Ockenden summer resort. Then on up the road towards Dinkey, all human signs disappeared save summer shacks decorated with moss boughs, denoting the places occupied by some fair lady during the heated season last year. On past Markwood Meadow—no one here and everything covered. At Summit Meadow we found Charles Perry making shakes in a sort of cellar dug in the snow. Mr. Perry got us up a very nice dinner and insisted on our staying, but as we wished to do the miner before another snowstorm we slid our snow shoes on.

You work these after the manner of a Chinaman with his heelless slippers—slide them ahead, first one then the other. When you wish to go down hill you sit on your pole and let one end drag behind as a brake. Then you take chances with the trees, logs and brush, for if the hill is steep you go in spite of your pole.

We had a merry slide down the hill to the Providence mine. The snow in and about the mine had almost gone. We found eight men busy at work there, piercing the hill in two places. The mine is being worked by Beard & Nelson. A 4-stamp mill with rock breaker, is busy stamping the quartz to "flour." For convenience and satisfaction of working ore this mine is a model. Situated on the south and west slope of the Dinkey ridge on mineral reserve land are the Providence and Richmond claims, with enough timber standing on the two claims to furnish wood and timber for twenty years, and all the water required for mill purposes running out of the drain tunnel.

The mill is at the mouth of the drain tunnel. The car containing the ore is switched on a turntable and run in at the gable end of the mill and dumped into the first or upper bin, the floor of which is grizzled, letting the fine through and the coarse into the rock breaker hopper and into the bin below, thence by a short chute into the ore feeder, from where it is fed into the battery as required. The mill consists of four 550 pound stamps and battery, a No. 3 Dodge rock breaker, a Challenge ore feeder, thirty square feet of silver-plated amalgamating slabs and a 20-horse power Rice engine.

The rockbreaker is driven by a one-inch seawood rope; the battery by an eight-inch rubber belt. The bins have a capacity of eighty tons, and the crushing capacity of the mill is eight tons a day. A Triumph four-foot concentrator is on the ground, but not in place to work the sulphurets, which are considered rich. The ore is rather of a decomposed nature and mills about $20 to $30 a ton, free gold, with a heavy percentage of sulphurets.

The blacksmith shop is also at the drain tunnel. This tunnel is in about 500 feet, and intersects the incline sunk on the dip of the ledge at the 200-foot level. Up this incline are levels run both ways about fifty or sixty feet apart. On the upper end of the claim a tunnel has been driven into the ledge 700 feet. All works are timbered with heavy sugar pine and fir. The ledge through all these levels shows up well, about a twenty-inch pay streak. To be able to work without loss of time during storms the track is covered with a snow shed from where it leaves under ground to the dumps.

Down the hill, and just below the Providence mine, lays the April Fool placer ground, discovered and located by L. B. Beard and John I. Nelson last April, which is now being worked by Ed. Hurst and W. M. Claypoole, who have the ground leased. Very rich gravel has been struck lately. The only difficulty is the water supply. At present but a small pipe head can be had, still Mr. Hurst says he can make $10 a day.

From the Providence we went over the hill and across Dinkey to Laurel creek. But one mine is now being worked here, on account of the snow; this one is the Royland mine, owned by Mark Royland of Visalia, now under lease and being worked by Louis Rabbido and "Cocoo" Hammers. They have out about seventy tons of good rock, which they will crush in the spring by means of a water-force arrastra.

Mr. Hammers has his family with him. His wife is the only woman beyond Ockenden's. A little beyond are the Exchequer claims, formerly owned by James Bridges, but recently sold to Henry Eversoll and James McMurtry—price said to be $3000. While here we met H. Hatch, who owns the Yellow Button, and Mr. Naylor of San Francisco. Mr. Hatch stated he had sold an interest and would put a mill up in the spring.

Mr. Kipp has some good ground in this vicinity, but is at present developing a claim in Hasslett basin, with fair results.

On Big Creek we found Hawk Thinn and R. A. Johnson working the bed of the creek. They have five claims and are satisfied with their prospects.

SANDERS WAS ALONE

The Mystery—What Became of Wootton?

RECORDING OF THE DEEDS

The Defendant Had Thought of a New Venture in Matrimony.

Yesterday was a quiet day in the Sanders trial. Testimony which had been adduced at the two former trials was gone over again, but it was of a character strongly implicating the defendant. The point was reached where the great mystery—what disposition was made of Wootton's body—presents itself to the prosecution in its contention of the case, in a manner which baffles even any attempt at advancing a plausible theory. If Sanders killed Wootton, what did he do with the body of his victim? Where did he so successfully dispose of it that no trace has ever been found? These are the questions which cannot be answered.

The prosecution believes that Wootton was murdered in his own house by the defendant; that Sanders propped the body of his victim up in the seat of his vehicle, and drove past Rohloff in this manner. About two miles further on two men saw Sanders without anyone sitting beside him. The prosecution thinks that the defendant had placed the body of the dead rancher in the bottom of the buckboard.

Then four hours elapse which are a blank to the prosecution, and during which it is believed that Sanders contrived to get the dead man off his hands. At 8 o'clock that evening, near Reedley, and about thirteen miles from the Wootton ranch, the defendant was seen driving on his way home.

If Wootton was murdered, the mystery surrounding the disposition of his body hardly finds a parallel in the criminal history of the country. Three years have now gone by since that first day of February, 1894, when the aged and wealthy rancher was last seen alive by his employe Rohloff. The people throughout the southeastern portion of the county were greatly aroused over the disappearance, and the discovery of Wootton's body has been a matter foremost in their minds during all this time. Their search has been unflagging, yet nothing has resulted from it.

Charles Rohloff was still on the stand when the trial was resumed yesterday morning, and his cross-examination by Attorney Short was continued. His testimony was gone over again at length. The only thing new brought out was that the defendant had told the witness that Knausch and Graves had procured a rig from a Fresno livery stable and drove out to Wootton's ranch with the $20,000 in gold when the deal for the ranch was consummated. Rohloff had forgotten to testify to this fact at the two former trials.

The two next witnesses were M. M. Records and Newt Wiseman. They were plowing about two miles below the Wootton house on February 1, 1894, and saw Sanders drive by, at a distance of only about 100 feet, shortly after 4 o'clock, at which hour Sanders and Wootton were seen by Rohloff. Records and Wiseman swore positively that Sanders sat alone in the seat of the buckboard.

Charles Gobin was then called to the stand. On the evening of the eventful February 1st, at about 8 o'clock, he met Sanders at a point thirteen miles below the Wootton ranch. The defendant was driving alone in his buckboard with the span of mules. The witness was positive that no one was with Sanders.

Assistant State Adjutant General R. L. Peeler, who was deputy recorder of this county in 1894, testified regarding the recording of the deeds and the agreement whereby the defendant secured control of the Wootton ranch. Mr. Peeler had received the documents through the mails from John Knausch, and were to be placed on record at his request. They were then to be returned to W. A. Sanders. The defendant had also called for the balance of the $5 note sent with the papers to pay for their recording. The envelope in which "John Knausch" had sent the deeds was mailed either at Reedley or at Sanders postoffice.

George Wiseman, father of Newt, was called to the stand and proved to be a very important witness for the prosecution. He had known Wootton and Sanders for many years, having rented land from the former. Wiseman was probably the first man to suspect the defendant of being responsible for the rancher's disappearance, and practically charged him with it before the case came to the attention of the authorities.

The witness had heard Sanders speak of a wealthy friend named Knausch, who he said was residing in Montana. The defendant often spoke of the capitalist as wanting to buy the Wootton ranch to engage in the growing of citrus fruits. In October, 1893, the witness had a conversation with the defendant regarding the purchase of the ranch. Sanders thought that $40,000 was a fair price for it, but Wiseman doubted if Wootton would let it go for that. The defendant said that Knausch would soon come to look at the place, and would in all probability locate there. Sanders asked if Knausch could have his mail sent to Wiseman's place, and the witness assented. Wiseman received a large number of papers addressed to John Knausch, but no letters. The papers accumulated, and finally the witness on one occasion asked the defendant when Knausch was coming, as he had a large number of papers for him. Sanders replied that the capitalist had located in Los Angeles, and told the witness to do with the papers as he liked.

About February 20, 1894, Sanders came to the home of the witness during his absence, and left word with Mrs. Wiseman for him to come up to the Wootton house the next morning, as he desired to see him. When he went there he found Sanders lying in bed. The defendant remarked that he had not slept much during the night, as he was ill. He then began to tell witness concerning the purchase of the ranch by himself, Knausch and Graves. When the witness asked what had become of Wootton, Sanders answered that he was in the southern part of the state with Knausch and Graves. Wiseman then said Wootton owed him $75, which he was anxious to get. The defendant said he would pay it, and pulled out a $20 bill and gave it to him, stating that he would settle the account as soon as he could. Sanders had explained that he and the other purchasers of the ranch would assume all of Wootton's obligations.

Wiseman had received a letter, dated at San Fernando in Southern California and purporting to be signed by William Wootton, on February 11th, only a week and a half after the rancher disappeared. A few days after that the witness met Sanders, and the defendant asked him if he had heard from Wootton. On the 16th Wiseman received another letter from Barstow, also signed "William Wootton."

The rancher wrote that he would cancel the debt of $700, owed by the witness to him. Wiseman went to Sanders about the letter, and said that "Uncle Billy" was becoming very liberal, as he had always insisted on wanting every cent due him. The witness then charged the defendant with writing the letter and forging Wootton's name to it, but this Sanders denied.

Wiseman had also received a letter purporting to come from Wootton, in which it was stated that he (Wootton) knew that Sanders wanted to marry the daughter of the witness; that Sanders intended to get a divorce from his wife in order to do so. Wiseman showed the letter to the defendant, and had remarked that "Wootton never would write such a thing." At this time also he accused the defendant of writing the letter. Judge Webb would not allow the contents of this missive to be read to the jury.

The trial will be resumed at 1.30 o'clock this morning.

The Razor Wielder Examined.

The preliminary examination of Alex Partee, for committing an assault with intent to murder, was held in Justice Austin's court yesterday. The matter was taken under advisement. Partee, it seems, went to Bridges' house and accused Bridges of talking about his (Partee's) wife. Some words followed and Partee slashed Bridges with a razor. Partee claimed he merely struck Bridges. One of the witnesses testified that Bridges reached back as if trying to draw a pistol, but Bridges denied that he was armed and said his coat was buttoned up. Another witness saw Partee deal Bridges a blow, but did not see the razor, which is not remarkable, as it was dark. There is no doubt that Partee committed the assault.

They Don't Like Randsburg.

From the Visalia Times.

Ike Harter and Sub Johnson returned from Randsburg this morning. The former had been there a month, and he has a beautiful desert brown overspreading his countenance. Mr. Harter is not very favorably impressed with the future prospects of that camp, now the Mecca of so many speculators. He says there are not more than seventy-five regularly employed men there yet, and with only that much actual labor he does not see how the town can keep up long. He has been assisting in sinking the shaft on a gold mine he has a third interest in, but he has not yet struck rock that pays to mill. Joseph H. Thomas of this city sunk $5000 in a mine about thirty-five miles north of Randsburg a good many years ago. If Randsburg is no better than that mining camp was, he does not want anything to do with it. Robert Laird says he was at Randsburg in the sixties and judging from his experience there he wouldn't give 10 cents for a quarter section of the Randsburg country.

A Fair Question.

From the Los Angeles Times.

It is a fair question whether church organization, any more than individuals, have a right to go into debt for elegant and costly buildings, and then expect the general public to come to their assistance when they find they are unable to pay for them. There is certainly nothing in the bible that warrants individuals or religious bodies to borrow money, or go into debt, for the sake of acquiring luxuries. The old-fashioned Methodist meeting house, free from debt, is better than a grand tabernacle with a big mortgage on it.

Funeral of Mrs. Flood.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 29.—The funeral of Mrs. Flood, widow of the late Bonanza king, James C. Flood, was held today. It was notable for its simplicity. There were no emblems of mourning, no flowers and no pall bearers. All this was in accordance with the wish of Mrs. Flood.

Big Alligators.

At the end of a chapter on alligators in his book, "Hunting and Fishing in Florida," Mr. Charles B. Cory, curator of the department of ornithology in the Field Columbian museum, Chicago, gives an entry which he once saw in the register of the Brock House.

In the old days, when transportation was more difficult than it is at present, the Brock House was about the end of civilization and was a 24 hours' trip by boat from Jacksonville. It was at that time a great resort for sportsmen, who were attracted there by the fishing and shooting to be had in the vicinity.

The old register, which extended back a great many years, contained some queer records, some of them of doubtful veracity. Among others, some one had written:

"March 19, 1872. Killed a large alligator, the largest seen here this year. The stomach contained a boot, a piece of pine wood, a fisherman's float and some small fish."

Immediately beneath this record was another, evidently added by some wag: "March 24. Killed a much bigger alligator than the one mentioned above. The stomach contained a gold watch, $10,000 in government bonds and a cord of wood."

On the next page, written in a neat, unobtrusive style, was inscribed the following: "Shot the biggest alligator ever known in Florida. The stomach contained the remains of a steam launch, a lot of old railway iron and a quantity of melted ice, proving that it existed during the glacial epoch."

A Confused Judge.

An English lawyer who had a habit of dropping his h's was one day prosecuting before Mr. Justice Lawrance a man for stealing, among other things, a halter. Constantly and consistently he spoke of "'alter," and after an hour or so of this the judge summoned the clerk of assize and seriously asked him, "Is this the crown court?" "Yes, my lord, I believe so," was the answer of the wondering official. "Thank you. I am relieved. I thought I had found my way into an ecclesiastical tribunal."

Friends Failed to Recognize Her

Mrs. Hadix so Changed in Appearance that She Hardly Knew Herself.

She Says the Secret of the Great Change and Her Present Good Health is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Other Prominent Citizens Testify to the Merits of this Remedy

From the Call, San Francisco, Cal.

"You don't know me! Well, I am not surprised at that. I hardly know myself, and yet here I am full of life and vigor. Look at my arms, round, strong and healthy. The color of my cheeks show life and animation."

So spoke Mrs. Hadix, wife of Rev. E. Hadix, of Placerville, California, and "what has produced this wonderful change from almost death to healthful, active life?"

"Well, I will tell you it was Pink Pills for Pale People. You will remember that for years I walked the streets a living skeleton, —emaciated—weak, and a complete wreck. My flesh colorless, my nerves unstrung. I had no blood. If my flesh was punctured, a thin pink stain was all that could be produced. My physicians said there was no hope for me. My friends despaired of my recovery. I was sent to Sacramento where three of the most eminent physicians diagnosed my case, but they shook their heads and said they could not help me, and they refused to take my money as they could do me no good.

"My husband was sent for to say the last good-bye. When I lay on my couch to rest I felt as though I was sinking, down, down, down. I could not sleep, neither could I rest. When all hope from physicians was gone, I determined to try what virtue there was in Pink Pills for Pale People. I commenced taking them and soon began to improve. I continued their use with the result that to-day I am fully recovered to health and happiness, and this in less than six months from the time I commenced their use. All hail to Pink Pills for Pale People."

J. C. Stephens, another resident of Placerville, said: "I was afflicted with rheumatism for more than twenty years, and only with the greatest difficulty was I able to walk to my place of business, my hands were so stiff and swollen that I could scarcely hold anything in them. When driving my team, I could not hold my whip. I saw in the San Francisco Call that a friend of mine had been cured of rheumatism by using Pink Pills. I commenced using them with the result that I am completely cured."

Mrs. J. G. Bailey was afflicted for a long time with kidney trouble and could not rest at nights. She said: "I had heard so much about the wonders that Pink Pills performed that I concluded to try them. I commenced taking them, and found immediate relief, sleep nicely, and in every way am greatly improved."

W. F. Fairchild is a druggist doing business in Placerville. He says he has been selling Pink Pills for Pale People for several years, and that his customers speak very highly of them, and sales have been more than doubled within the last six months, especially since the wonderful recovery of Mrs. Hadix, whose case was considered hopeless, and whose recovery by the use of Pink Pills was considered almost a miracle. The reputation of these pills is fully established for doing what they promise.

A USED-UP OLD MINER RENEWS HIS YOUNGER DAYS.

From the Report, San Francisco, Cal.

San Francisco is the inviting Mecca of invalids. To revel in the luxuries of her balmy air and the health-giving ocean breezes of the placid Pacific come the sick from all climes and all countries.

The millionaire, the business man and the tourist all meet on common ground in the magnificent hostelries of the queen city of the Pacific. They all come for some special reason. The millionaire's visit is more often for health than for anything else. The business man combines rest and pleasure while domiciled in this land of sunshine. The tourist looks around for novelties and he finds plenty of them to jot down in his note book. The Golden Gate Park, the Cliff House, Sutro Baths and the Presidio are matters of which he has heard and read, but which he now sees and realizes with all that keen pleasure known only to travelers.

The rich men from the mining regions every year rendezvous in San Francisco at some time or other. Some come for a change of scene, while others are necessitated to come down to seek medical aid.

Among the afflicted who have for years visited San Francisco to brace up their shattered constitutions is the well-known William Shore, of 28 Minna Street, familiarly known as Daddy Shore, because of his affectionate disposition and kind-heartedness. Mr. Shore is the head of a family. He has a happy home, a loving wife and children, city and country realty, paying mining investments and a pretty substantial bank account. For years, however, he has lacked one thing which all his wealth could not buy. He lacked health and spent thousands of dollars for doctors and medicines to obtain even temporary relief.

Mr. Shore's greatest and most painful ailment was rheumatism. For ten years he suffered terribly. At times the pains were almost unbearable and he writhed in agony. His limbs would swell and his head would ache, so that rest was impossible.

These spells of sickness were as distressing to his family and his friends as they were weakening to the sufferer. In San Francisco he had the best of medical skill, but all that the doctors could do was to afford temporary relief. All the health resorts and all the famous springs of the State were visited in turn without effecting any permanent good results.

Mr. Shore was about to give up in despair and settled down with resignation into being a life-long sufferer, when a San Francisco friend—at whose home he was stopping—told him of some miraculous cures made by the use of a certain pill, the name of which at the moment he could not remember.

Clutching like a drowning man at a straw, Mr. Shore requested his friend to make further inquiries about the wonderful medicine. Next day he was presented with a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Scarcely two days had passed before Mr. Shore seemed to get some relief and he felt very much encouraged and continued his pill treatment with steadiness and faithfulness. Before a week was over all signs of swelling had disappeared and his limbs were of normal shape and size. Relief from pain was gradual until it all went away. The sufferer was amazed. He could scarcely believe his senses, so pronounced became the cure in reasonable time. To say that Mr. Shore is a happy man does not express the situation. He is brimming over with joy. Although an old-timer, he is as young as the youngest, dancing and prancing around, singing the praises of the medicine that wrought such a miracle.

There is no secret about his cure. Mr. Shore is one of the representative men of the Pacific coast, with hosts of friends and acquaintances, all of whom can testify to the truth of the circumstances related above.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Harper's Magazine

FICTION: "The Martian," the new novel by Du Maurier, the eagerly expected successor to "Trilby," begun in October Number, 1896, with illustrations from the author's drawings. A new novel by Frank R. Stockton—developing a Twentieth Century Renaissance—full of humorous situations and characteristically illustrated. "A Pair of Patient Lovers," by William Dean Howells. Other striking novelettes by American authors. Short stories by Mark Twain, Thomas Nelson Page, Richard Harding Davis, Owen Wister, John Kendrick Bangs, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Octave Thanet, Mary E. Wilkins, and other popular writers.

AMERICAN FEATURES: The Mexico of To-day, a series by Charles F. Lummis, splendidly illustrated—the result of a recent visit to Mexico undertaken for HARPER'S MAGAZINE. Mexico is pre-eminently a silver-producing country, and its monetary operations rest entirely on a silver basis. Owing to the keen discussion of certain economic problems in connection with issues of urgent importance in American politics, these papers will command general attention. American Historical Papers by Woodrow Wilson, John Bach MacMaster and James Barnes. The true story of Sheridan's Ride, by Gen. G. A. Forsyth. Continuation of Howells' Personal Reminiscences of eminent literary Americans.

AFRICA AND THE EAST: White Man's Africa, a fully illustrated series of papers by Poultney Bigelow, the result of personal observations during a recent trip to Africa, covering the whole field of European exploitation of that country. Illustrated articles by Stephen Bonsal on the transformations going on in Eastern Siberia, recently visited by the author. Hungarian Sketches, written and drawn by F. Hopkinson Smith. The full story of the recent Coronation of the Czar, by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by R. Caton Woodville, who was commissioned by Queen Victoria to paint a picture of the ceremony.

HARPER'S BAZAR

The BAZAR, a thoroughly up-to-date periodical for women, will enter upon its Thirtieth Volume in 1897.

As a Fashion journal it is unsurpassed, and is an indispensable requisite for every well-dressed woman. Katharine De Forest writes a weekly letter on current fashions from Paris. In New York Fashions, and in the fortnightly pattern-sheet supplement, ladies find full details, directions, and diagrams for gowns, wraps, and children's clothing. Sandoz, Baude, and Chapuis draw and engrave the newest and finest Parisian designs every week.

The serials for 1897 will be: The Red Bridge Neighborhood, by Maria Louise Pool; and Father Quinnailon, by Octave Thanet. Short stories will be constantly presented by brilliant writers, among whom are Mary E. Wilkins, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Marion Harland, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Viola Roseboro, and Margaret Sutton Briscoe.

What women are doing in various parts of the Union will form a series of special interest.

Other interesting features are the Out-door Woman, devoted to healthful sports and pastimes; Music, a weekly critical summary of music in New York; Amateur Theatricals, Embroidery and Needlework, Ceremony and Etiquette, Good Housekeeping, "What Girls are Doing," "Current Social Events," and Personals gleaned from original sources.

Women and men. Colonel T. W. Higginson will regularly continue his valuable essays.

Answers to correspondents. This column is conducted for the benefit and convenience of readers, and all questions received are answered in rotation, as promptly and fully as practicable.

Art. The BAZAR is a notable picture-gallery, reproducing the most beautiful works of American and foreign artists, as presented in the annual Paris and New York exhibitions. Wit and Humor. Everybody turns for a hearty laugh to the BAZAR'S last page.

HARPER'S WEEKLY

IN 1897.

With the end of 1896 HARPER'S WEEKLY will have lived forty years. In that time it has participated with all the zeal and power at its command in the great political events of the most interesting and important period in the history of the country, and it has spread before its readers the accomplishments of science, arts, and letters for the instruction of the human mind and the amelioration of human conditions and of manners.

What the WEEKLY has been in its spirit and purpose, as these have been manifested, principally in its editorial pages, it will continue to be.

It is impossible to announce with precision all that the WEEKLY will contain during the year 1897. It were as easy to announce what is about to happen in the world, what triumphs for good government are to be won, what advances of the people are to be made, what is to be the outcome of the continuous struggle between the spirits of war and peace, what is to happen in the Far East, what is to be the state of Europe twelve months hence, what new marvels of science are to be revealed, or what are to be the achievements of arts and letters, for the WEEKLY is to be a pictorial record of all this.

Cartoons will continue to be a feature.

Serial Stories. A New England story by Miss Mary E. Wilkins will begin in January. A tale of a Greek uprising against the Turks, by Mr. E. F. Benson, the author of "Dodo," will follow. A sequel to "The House-Boat on the Styx," by Mr. John Kendrick Bangs, illustrated by Mr. Peter Newell.

More Short Stories will appear in the WEEKLY than it has been possible to publish during 1896.

Departments: Mr. W. D. Howells's "Life and Letters" have been among the most charming features of periodical literature; Mr. E. S. Martin, and others will contribute observations on what is going on in "This Busy World;" "Amateur Sport" will remain the most important department of its kind in the country.

The WEEKLY will continue to present to its readers the world's news most interesting to Americans, to make important advances in both the literary and artistic features, and to retain for itself the leading place in the illustrated journalism of the world.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.
